BIO

Kevin R. Maynard, Owner/Member of Open Hearth Home Inspection, LLC, is a Certified Master Home Inspector and Licensed General Contractor. He is also a member of the American Home Inspector Training Institute (AHIT) as well as the Wisconsin Association of Home Inspectors (WAHI) and American Society of home inspectors (ASHI).

Kevin is often hired by attorneys, insurance agencies, builders and homeowners who have encountered problems with their construction project or home inspection. He is also frequently hired to find defects in homes especially log homes that builders or homeowners encounter after the home is built or being built, such as ice damming, mold problems or water coming into the building.

Kevin acquired extensive experience building and repairing log homes before becoming a licensed home inspector and he understands the entire building process and the components of a home as well. He still gets involved with these projects today.

He has been a guest speaker for WAHI and ASHI and has traveled to Norway, Switzerland, Germany, Italy, Greece, Mexico, Ecuador, Columbia and Estonia looking at buildings, speaking to builders on the particular challenges involved in building and inspecting homes, especial log homes. He was also an instructor for Home Inspector University, based in Fox River Grove, IL.

Kevin also owns Complete Basement Repair, LLC, a company that repairs building foundations.

In addition, Kevin is a log home expert. He has been called upon across the country as an expert witness regarding log home inspection and construction errors. He served on committees responsible for log building standards worldwide.
